NOTES FROM THE DEPARTMENT

Exciting times are ahead for our Manchester community. In less than two months, a second class of Manchester graduates will enter the health care field. Equipped with what they learned in the classroom and sharpened while on rotation, they will seek to improve health care on the individual, national and international levels. Manchester's message of "respect for the infinite worth of every individual" was not just something they heard at Manchester. The embodiment of that message they saw in your practice has surely empowered them to be agents of positive change and better health outcomes.

As always, we welcome your feedback and appreciate your suggestions. We continue to take your valuable input and use it to make our experiential education offerings efficient and valuable both to you and the students. Here is a quick summary of some changes we have introduced:

- Availability requests and schedules release are now synced with our colleagues at Purdue and Butler
- Evaluations are more concise
- Definitions of "Exceeds", "Meets" and "Does not Meet" expectations are now the same across all three of the pharmacy programs offered in Indiana

- We continue to offer preceptor development that is beneficial to you and based on your input
- CEI offerings
- Spring preceptor development
- Introducing an APPE bootcamp prior to the start of APPEs to help smooth students transition from classroom to clinical problem solving

As always, we are very thankful to you and the time and effort you invest in helping us prepare our future colleagues. We are all grateful for you.

– Ahmed

SPARTAN SPOTLIGHT

Jane Shick

Jane began working at Manchester University in 2015. She earned a bachelor's degree from Lee University in 1980 and has worked in the customer service and office administration fields. She has more than 10 years of experience in office administration at the higher education level.

Jane was born and raised in Kentucky but has lived in Fort Wayne for almost 25 years. While Kentucky will always be home, she can't think of any place besides Fort Wayne she would rather live.

When not at work, you will find Jane enjoying a good book, cooking, coloring or working word puzzles.
