INTRODUCTION

The baccalaureate degree program in social work at Manchester University is designed to provide students with a sound educational program that is compatible with the missions of the social work profession and the University. The program seeks primarily to prepare students for beginning generalist social work practice through both on- and off-campus educational experiences. In addition, the program prepares students for graduate education and responsible citizenship.

The material contained within this handbook is designed for use by both students and faculty to:

- Understand the Manchester University Social Work Program within the context of the mission of Manchester University and of the values and ethics of the social work profession.
- Clarify the Competencies students are expected to develop as a result of the Social Work Program;
- Explain the design of the social work curriculum;
- Clarify the policies and procedures related to admission to the Social Work Program and the Senior Social Work Practice Block;
- Provide students information about the Senior Comprehensive Evaluation, a Manchester University graduation requirement which each student in the major must pass; and
- Encourage students to participate in a variety of available professional growth activities.

It is hoped that this handbook will serve as a helpful guide to those involved in the Manchester University Social Work Program.

This handbook and further information about the Manchester University Social Work Program are available on the program's website:

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY MISSION and VALUES STATEMENTS

Mission Statement

Manchester University respects the infinite worth of every individual and graduates persons of ability and conviction who draw upon their education and faith to lead principled, productive, and compassionate lives that improve the human condition.

Values Statement

As a primarily undergraduate, residential, liberal arts community rooted in the tradition of the Church of the Brethren, Manchester University values:

- Learning, because high academic expectations in an environment combining liberal arts and professional preparation equip graduates to live healthy, productive, and principled lives;
- Faith, because our diverse faiths call us to make the world a kinder and better place, establish justice, build peace amid strife, and model lives of agape (selfless love), tikkun olam (repairing a broken world), and salam (peace);
- Service, because committing self in service to others connects faith with action and abilities with convictions;
- Integrity, because honesty and trust are the foundations of teaching and learning, enriching, enduring relationships, and strong communities;
- Diversity, because understanding differences develops respect for ethnic, cultural, and religious pluralism; an international consciousness; and an appreciation for the infinite worth of every person; and
- Community, because a positive community sharpens self-identity, promotes acceptance of the demands of responsible citizenship, and transforms conflict into mutual respect.

STATEMENTS OF NON-DISCRIMINATION

The University

According to its Statement of Mission, Manchester University is committed to the appreciation of human diversity, recognizing the worth of every person, and developing international consciousness. As part of the commitment, Manchester University ensures equal access and equal opportunity to applicants pursuing employment with the University in faculty, staff, or student positions.

Policy on Human Diversity

Statement of Purpose

Manchester University has a tradition of commitment to social justice and appreciation of human diversity, supported by the University's identity as a Church of the Brethren institution. Reflecting these commitments, the Manchester University Policy on Human Diversity has the following purposes:

- To assist in upholding the University's mission to educate its students, faculty and staff about the nature and value of human diversity;
- To encourage the appreciation of human diversity in the University community;
- To recruit qualified faculty, staff and students from traditionally underrepresented groups at Manchester University;
- To counter discrimination and harassment and to provide redress procedures should such violations occur; and
- To comply with all federal and state of Indiana laws applicable to Manchester University related to equal opportunity (MU Employee Handbook, p. 10; MU Student Handbook, p. 6).

Related Policy Statements

- Non-discrimination Statement: Manchester University is committed to non-discrimination in campus life. The University does not discriminate on the basis of national origin, ancestry, race, color, age, sex, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, familial status, religion, disability or veteran status in admissions or any area of campus life, including its educational programs, scholarships and loan awards, residence life programs, athletic programs, extracurricular programs, promotion and tenure policies and practice, and alumni affairs (MU Catalog).

- Equal Employment Opportunity / Non-Discrimination Policy: All decisions regarding recruiting, hiring, promotion, assignment, training, termination, and other terms and conditions of employment will be made without inappropriate discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, ancestry, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, religion, age, disability, veteran status, physical characteristics, familial status, or any other factor which cannot lawfully be used as a basis for an employment decision (MU Employee Handbook, p. 11; MU Student Handbook, p. 6).
- Non-Discrimination in Admissions and Campus Life: Similarly, all decisions regarding admissions, as well as all areas of campus life (including, but not limited to, its educational programs, scholarships and loan awards, residence life programs, athletic programs, extracurricular programs, promotion and tenure policies and practice and alumni affairs) will be made without inappropriate discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, ancestry, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, religion, age, disability, veteran status, physical characteristics, familial status, or any other factor which cannot lawfully be used (MU Employee Handbook, p. 11; MU Student Handbook, p. 6).
- Title IX: Title IX prohibits gender-based discrimination in all programs and activities of a University receiving federal funding, such as Manchester. Although two of the most common applications of the law are athletics and sexual harassment, Title IX also applies to admissions, financial aid, academic matters, career services, counseling and medical services and all other programs and activities available to students at Manchester University (MU Employee Handbook, p. 10; MU Student Handbook, p. 25).

- Rehabilitation and Americans with Disabilities Acts: It is Manchester University's policy to not discriminate against qualified individuals with disabilities in regard to application procedures, hiring, advancement, discharge, compensation, training, or other terms, conditions, and privileges of employment. The University is committed to ensuring equal employment opportunities for qualified individuals with disabilities. The University will provide reasonable accommodations to employees and applicants protected by the ADA by making changes in the work environment or by changing certain practices and procedures as long as these changes do not pose an undue hardship on the University or alter the essential functions of the position (MU Employee Handbook, p. 15).

The University is committed to carry out the provisions of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act, which provide for accessibility of University programs to the physically disabled (MU Catalog).

Students who have a disability are able to use the services available to all Manchester University students. In addition, for those who present documentation of a disability, we will provide reasonable accommodations in their course work. Students work with the director of academic support services to determine the accommodations needed and plan how they can be managed. The students, director, academic advisors, and professors cooperate to provide the appropriate accommodations (i.e., extended exam time, note takers, enlarged print handouts, etc.) (MU Disability Support Services Handbook).

CODE OF ETHICS OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS

Preamble

The primary mission of the social work profession is to enhance human well-being and help meet the basic human needs of all people, with particular attention to the needs and empowerment of people who are vulnerable, oppressed, and living in poverty. A historic and defining feature of social work is the profession's focus on individual well-being in a social context and well-being of society. Fundamental to social work is attention to the environmental forces that create, contribute to, and address problems in living.

The mission of the social work profession is rooted in a set of core values. These core values, embraced by social workers throughout the profession's history, are the foundation of social work's unique purpose and perspective. Core values, and the ethical principles that flow from them, must be balanced within the context and complexity of the human experience.

Core Value

Ethical Principle

Service

Social workers' primary goal is to help people in need and to address social problems.

Social Justice	Social workers challenge social injustice.
Dignity and Worth of the Person	Social workers respect the inherent dignity and worth of the person.
Importance of Human Relationships	Social workers recognize the central importance of human relationships.
Integrity	Social workers behave in a trustworthy manner.
Competence	Social workers practice within their areas of competence and develop and enhance their professional expertise.

The above is an excerpt from the NASW Code of Ethics as approved by the 1996 NASW Delegate Assembly and revised by the 2017 NASW Delegate Assembly. The complete text, including ethical standards, is provided to each Manchester University social work student in SOWK 110 Introduction to Social Work. Copies are also available from the program director or online at www.socialworkers.org.

SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM MISSION, GOALS, DEFINITION OF GENERALIST PRACTICE, AND COMPETENCIES

Statement of Mission

The MU Social Work Program, a baccalaureate degree program accredited by CSWE, graduates generalist social work professionals of ability and conviction who respect the infinite worth of every individual. Graduates of the program improve the human condition by applying social work knowledge, values, and skills to enhance the well-being of all people, especially those who are vulnerable, oppressed, or living in poverty; to alleviate poverty and oppression; and to promote social, economic, and environmental justice and peace.

Program Goals

1. The program’s primary goal is to prepare students for beginning generalist baccalaureate social work practice.
2. A secondary goal is to prepare students to enter and successfully complete graduate level social work education programs. (The majority of MU social work graduates choose to enter practice following graduation, although many pursue graduate education eventually.)

Definition of Generalist Social Work Practice

The goals of the program require an educational experience in which students are enabled to integrate the values, knowledge, and skills of the social work profession into competent generalist social work practice. The MU Social Work Program defines generalist social work practice as the:

...professionally responsible application of knowledge and skills, grounded in a broad evidence-based theoretical foundation and transferable among contexts and populations, to the alleviation of personal and public problems. Generalist social workers understand client systems (i.e., diverse individuals, families, other small groups, organizations, neighborhoods, communities, and societies) within their environmental context and engage in holistic assessment, planning, and interventions which build upon client strengths to (1) enhance the developmental, problem-solving, and coping capacities of people, (2) promote the effective and humane operation of systems that provide resources to people, (3) link people with those systems, and (4) contribute to the development of social policies and institutions which promote social, economic, and environmental justice and peace.

Program Competencies

The MU Social Work Program is a competency-based educational program. The curriculum is designed to support student achievement of nine Social Work Competencies, each of which describes a set of knowledge, values, skills, and cognitive and affective processes required for competent generalist social work practice. In keeping with the program's mission and goals, and CSWE accreditation standards, graduates of the MU Social Work Program achieve the following competencies:

1. Demonstrate ethical and professional behavior
2. Engage diversity and difference in practice
3. Advance human rights and social, economic, and environmental justice
4. Engage in practice-informed research and research-informed practice
5. Engage in policy practice
6. Engage with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities
7. Assess individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities
8. Intervene with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities
9. Evaluate practice with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities

ACCREDITATION AND ASSESSMENT OF THE SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM

Accreditation is a system for recognizing educational institutions and professional programs affiliated with those institutions as having a level of performance, integrity, and quality that entitles them to the confidence of the educational community and the public they serve.

The Manchester University Baccalaureate Social Work Program is accredited to prepare students for beginning generalist social work practice by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE), the national body which establishes standards for the accreditation of social work education programs.

CSWE's Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards, setting forth official curriculum policy for the accreditation of social work education programs, can be found in Appendix E of this manual. Content areas are specified to provide social work students with the values, knowledge, and skills required for achieving the Competencies and entering into the profession.

Students are invited to participate in the formulation and evaluation of the Social Work Program. At least two social work students are invited each year to serve on the Social Work Program Advisory Council, along with members of the professional social work community.

The input of other students is welcome at any time and is periodically invited to assist faculty in considering specific issues. During the self-study process for accreditation review, students are invited to participate in a focus group designed to elicit student views about the program's Competencies, design, curriculum, and policies. Students are invited to meet with the faculty to discuss questions, ideas, concerns, and suggestions about specific areas of the Social Work Program.

Upon the completion of Field Instruction students are asked to complete a written evaluation of the Social Work Program. Alumni and their employers are surveyed two years after graduation to gain their views about the effectiveness of the Manchester University Social Work Program in preparing them for social work practice and/or graduate study.

The complete MU Social Work Program Assessment Plan is detailed on the following page:

Program Design (cont.) - Professional Foundation Curriculum Content Areas

The Social Work Program curriculum is designed to prepare students for beginning baccalaureate generalist social work practice by guiding and stimulating students to develop the professional values, knowledge, skills, and cognitive and affective processes essential to the successful performance of generalist social work competencies.

Content from the liberal arts and the knowledge, values, and skills gained in the professional foundation courses are integrated during a 420-hour supervised field experience to prepare students to become competent, ethical, and self-evaluating beginning generalist social workers.

The social work curriculum consists of five professional foundation areas: (1) Human Behavior and the Social Environment, (2) Social Welfare Policy and Services, (3) Research, (4) Social Work Practice, and (5) Field Instruction. Introduction to Social Work is the starting point for each of the five foundation areas:

SOWK 110 Introduction to Social Work: Service, Empowerment, and Justice.

Usually taken by first year or sophomore students, Introduction to Social Work is a base for all of the professional foundation areas. This course provides students with a general orientation to the field of social welfare, the social work profession, the settings in which social work is practiced, the target populations served by social workers, and the career opportunities in the field of social work. Through extensive use of field trips and guest resource persons, students are encouraged to test their interest in a social service career, while discovering both vicariously and directly the joys and challenges found within the profession of social work.

1. Human Behavior and the Social Environment

This foundation area provides students with knowledge of individuals as they develop over the life span and are members of families, groups, organizations, and communities. It addresses the relationships among human biological, social, psychological, spiritual, and cultural systems as they affect and are affected by human behavior. Based upon knowledge from biology, sociology, political science, economics, and psychology, the content in this foundation area is taught in Introduction to Social Work; Racial, Ethnic, and Gender Inequality; and Human Behavior in the Social Environment.

SOWK 228 Racial, Ethnic, and Gender Inequality.

An objective of Racial, Ethnic, and Gender Inequality is to introduce students to the range of human diversity with respect to race, ethnicity, gender, and sexual orientation. Students are encouraged to empathize with those who experience prejudice, discrimination, and oppression because of such differences and are expected to develop an understanding of the sociological and psychological dynamics of prejudice, its behavioral counterpart—discrimination, and its sociopolitical counterpart—oppression, including the impact of discrimination on the development and ongoing functioning of individuals.

SOWK 334 Human Behavior in the Social Environment.

Usually taken in the junior year, HBSE uses a systems model to study human life-span development and behavior with a focus on integrating biological, psychological, socio-cultural, spiritual, and socio-environmental systems of human behavior into a functional whole. This course facilitates student understanding of the reciprocal interactions between individuals and the families, groups, organizations, communities, cultural groups, and societies to which they belong. Students completing HBSE are expected to have an awareness of and ability to holistically assess persons as biopsychosocial and spiritual systems attempting to function within a social environment. Students in this course also participate in a 3-day trip to Chicago with the faculty to study urban social work and human diversity. Emphasis is placed on understanding how diverse communities are affected by political, economic, and sociological factors.

2. Social Welfare Policy and Services

The major purpose of study in this area is to prepare beginning social workers to function as informed and competent practitioners in providing services and as knowledgeable and committed participants in efforts to influence the development and improvement of social policies and programs. Students develop skills in the use and application of scientific knowledge to analyzing and developing social welfare programs and services. They learn about the structure of service programs and the history of the organized social work profession and other social welfare institutions. An understanding of political processes provides students with a means to achieve social work goals and purposes. Based upon liberal arts courses in sociology, economics, and political science, the content in this professional foundation area is taught in Introduction to Social Work, Social Welfare Policy, and Social Work Practice III.

SOWK 366 Social Welfare Policy seeks to integrate previously mastered content, particularly in the areas of sociology, economics, and political science in the development of models for the analysis of social welfare policy. Students are expected to acquire understanding of the process of policy development and to perform beginning policy analysis. This course includes a field trip to NASW-IN Legislative Education and Advocacy Day at the Indiana Statehouse.

SOWK 384 Social Work Practice III: Organizations and Communities. Usually taken in the fall of the senior year, Practice III straddles the Policy and Practice tracks in the curriculum. It further students' policy analysis skills by applying them to social work practice within governmental, political, organizational, and community social service settings.

3. Research

The focus of the research content in the social work curriculum is to help students understand the scientific methods of knowledge building, the critical thinking skills for interpreting research results, the ethical considerations for conducting and utilizing research, and the skills needed to evaluate the effectiveness of their own social work practice and of service delivery programs.

SOWK 222 Social Research Methods. Social Research Methods is the central course in which students learn scientific methods for building knowledge and evaluating service delivery. Students gain a practical understanding of both qualitative and quantitative approaches to systematic inquiry. In addition, content related to knowledge building and application of research to social work practice is included in all five foundation areas of the curriculum.

4. Social Work Practice

It is in the Social Work Practice sequence that students are expected to integrate the social work knowledge base with professional social work values and develop the skills and cognitive and affective processes needed for generalist social work practice. Students are prepared to work with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. They gain the skills required to intervene as a professional generalist social worker to enhance people's developmental, problem-solving, and coping capacities, to promote effective and humane operation of the systems that provide resources and services to people, to link people with those systems, and to contribute to the development and improvement of social policy.

Social Work Practice courses focus on preparing students to understand and appreciate human diversity and to use differential assessment and intervention skills in order to competently serve diverse populations. These courses prepare students to promote social, economic, and environmental justice and active peacemaking. Courses in which social work practice content is taught include: Introduction to Social Work, Social Work Practice I, Social Service Policy, Social Work Practice II, and Social Work Practice III.

SOWK 274 Social Work Practice I: Becoming a Skilled Helper. Building upon the knowledge base, values, skills, and roles of the social work profession introduced in Introduction to Social Work, students in Social Work Practice I learn practice skills for intervention with client systems of all sizes. In particular, students learn active listening, professional use of self, and written and oral communication skills. This course involves students in their first field experience, affording them a chance to put into practice the skills, concepts, and methods being learned in class. These experiences assist students in evaluating their own choice of social work as a profession and enable them to have a beginning experience to which they can relate further professional learning.

SOWK 375 Social Work Practice II: Individuals, Families, and Groups.

Completed during the fall semester of the senior year, this course requires admission to both the Social Work Program and the Senior Social Work Practice Block. Social work students integrate generalist practice skills, theoretical models, and values and ethics within a problem-solving framework for creating change at individual, family, group levels. Students learn to conduct assessments, develop and implement intervention plans, terminate client-worker relationships, and evaluate practice. To enhance content on groups, students participate in an actual client group in an agency or community setting throughout the semester. An off-site retreat allows for deep exploration of self-awareness, knowledge, and skills for culturally competent, anti-racist practice with diverse clients.

SOWK 384 Social Work Practice III: Organizations and Communities.

Usually taken in the fall of the senior year, this course prepares students to create change in organizations and communities. Students learn to apply the planned helping process (engagement, assessment, intervention, and evaluation) to practice with organizations and communities. Emphasis is placed on agency administration, program planning, policy analysis, community organization, and community development as means to promote social, economic, and environmental justice.

SOWK 477 Social Work Practice IV: Synthesizing a Professional Identity is an intensive three and one-half week capstone experience immediately following completion of Field Instruction. It involves a retreat, seminars, and individual and small group projects. Students address ethical issues and conflicts raised in their field experiences. They seek solutions, both individually and as a group, to unresolved problems in practice role performance. The primary focus is integration of each student's undergraduate social work preparation into a generalist social work practitioner model that will provide guidelines for entering practice.

5. Field Instruction

Through the Field Instruction component, students develop an awareness of the social service agencies and the community contexts in which social work is practiced. They are exposed to a variety of populations served by social workers and required to practice the analytical and interpersonal skills needed for effective beginning generalist social work practice.

The Field Instruction Program consists of two phases. The first phase involves field trips, observational activities in social service organizations, opportunities to interact with clients on a volunteer basis, and classroom presentations by a variety of practitioners. These experiences are integrated into earlier courses in the social work curriculum. The second phase of Field Instruction includes Field Instruction and Field Instruction Seminar.

SOWK 475 Field Instruction and SOWK 476 Field Instruction Seminar. The second phase of the Field Instruction component is designed for advanced students, usually last-term seniors. Field Instruction and the concurrent Seminar have as their primary objective that students integrate material acquired in previous courses with the role expectations of the social work practice setting. Enrollment in these two courses requires admission to the Social Work Program and the Senior Social Work Practice Block and is allowed only at the senior level. The field placement is a fourteen-week block placement, with students spending four days per week in social service agencies under the joint instruction and guidance of a community-based social service practitioner (Agency Field Instructor) and a Faculty Field Instructor. Students are expected to carry caseloads and function, as much as is practical, in all facets of the agency program. Students must complete a minimum of 420 hours in their placements. Students spend one day per week on campus participating in Field Seminar, for which they prepare several written assignments, a professional presentation, and participate in group supervision.

CURRICULAR SUBSTITUTIONS AND TRANSFER OF CREDIT

Academic credit for life experience and previous work experience is not granted, in whole or in part, in lieu of Field Instruction or other courses in the Professional Foundation of the social work major.

All transfer of credits must be approved by the Registrar. All substitutions of courses or transfer of credits in the social work major must be approved by the Director of the Social Work Program, who informs the Registrar in writing of the approval or denial. A record of the approval or denial is maintained in the student's advising file and in the Office of the Registrar.

Decisions regarding requests for transfer credit and course substitutions for SOWK 110 Introduction to Social Work, SOWK 274 Social Work Practice I, and required courses in the liberal arts base will be made by the Director of the Social Work Program, in consultation with the faculty member teaching the social work course, or faculty teaching the social work major course for which the course in question serves as a prerequisite. The student's transcript, course syllabi, objectives, and information regarding textbooks, bibliography, and learning experiences will be used to make decisions about equivalency and mastery of content.

Transfer credit or course substitutions for all other courses in the Professional Foundation will be considered only if earned from baccalaureate social work programs accredited by the CSWE. However, CSWE-accreditation of previous coursework does not guarantee that the request will be approved. Decisions regarding transfer credit or course substitutions within the social work major will recognize prior academic achievement and seek to avoid unnecessary duplication of academic content.

SENIOR COMPREHENSIVE EVALUATION

Each academic major at Manchester University includes a Senior Comprehensive Evaluation (SCE) which each student must pass prior to graduation. The comprehensive evaluation is a learning/ assessment experience, consistent with the goals of the major, structured to help students to grow intellectually in the major. The SCE is a valuable part of the Program's Assessment Plan in measuring learning outcomes.

The SCE in social work consists of three evaluations, each of which is a part of a required course taken in the spring of the senior year.

1. Evaluation of Student Performance in Field Instruction

This evaluation culminates SOWK 475 Field Instruction. The evaluation addresses all of the Competencies established for the Social Work Program and is conducted in the agency at the midpoint and the end of the fourteen week field placement in a conference with the student, the Agency Field Instructor, and the Faculty Field

Instructor. The evaluation form, in which all Competencies are stated and operationalized, can found in the Field Instruction Manual which is provided to all students in the spring of the junior year.

Both Agency and Faculty Field Instructors provide students with feedback and assistance in correcting deficiencies at the time of the midterm evaluation and throughout the field experience. In the unusual event that a student does not successfully complete Field Instruction, the Social Work Program faculty, after consultation with the student, will consider whether an extension or arrangement of an alternate field placement should be considered. If the student is dissatisfied with the decision, the student has the right to appeal according to procedures outlined in the Field Instruction Manual.

2. Field Instruction Seminar Capstone Assignments

SOWK 476 Field Instruction Seminar includes a series of eight (8) capstone assignments that comprise the second part of the SCE. These assignments are: (1) an Organizational Analysis, (2) a Client Assessment, (3) an Intervention Plan, (4) an Evaluation and Termination Plan, (5) a Program Proposal (grant proposal), (6) a Policy Portfolio, (7) a Research Project Proposal, and (8) a Professional Presentation. Students must earn at least a 70% on each assignment. All assignments are graded by the course instructor according to detailed rubrics provided to students in advance. Reasonable assistance is offered to any student who needs help to successfully complete the assignments, including the opportunity to receive feedback on multiple drafts.

3. Social Work Practice Frame of Reference

This project is the central experience of SOWK 477 Social Work Practice IV, an integrative seminar offered in an intensive 3-week format after Field Instruction and in the final weeks of spring term of the senior year. The goal is for students to integrate the theoretical social work practice models and principles from earlier curriculum with the application experienced in the field and to articulate a personalized frame of reference for professional practice. Students make an oral presentation in seminar and receive responses from peers and faculty. Students prepare a 10-25 page paper according to an outline provided.

This is a guided learning experience designed to assist the student through the learning process and in preparation of the final paper. Reasonable assistance is offered to any student who needs help to successfully complete the final paper or to prepare for the oral presentation.

ACADEMIC AND PROFESSIONAL ADVISING

Academic advising at Manchester University is, as much as possible, provided by faculty in the student's major. In addition to academic advising, the Social Work Program offers professional social work advising, provided by the full-time social work faculty. Social Work Program faculty are active with any student interested in exploring a major in social work, providing information about the profession and the academic and personal requirements for social work practice and assisting students to evaluate their own interests and suitability for the profession. The academic and professional advising in the Social Work Program is designed to facilitate achievement of the Program's overall goals and Competencies through:

1. Assisting students in understanding

- program Competencies, curriculum structure, requirements of the academic major, and course sequencing;
2. Assisting in assessing academic and personal aptitude for entry into the social work profession;
3. Providing information and directing students to resources to assist them in evaluating their own career and educational objectives;
4. Discussing problems related to conflicts between students' aptitudes, personal attributes, and values and the choice of a major;
5. Providing consultation about students' course schedules for each academic term, assisting them in determining manageable academic loads, meeting (general education) requirements and requirements for the major, and selecting elective courses;
6. Providing information and assisting students to assess field experiences that best meet their educational needs and career goals;
7. Encouraging students' involvement in professional growth activities on campus and in the community;
8. Providing assistance in career planning and employment search; and
9. Providing assistance in graduate school selection and application.

ADMISSION AND CONTINUATION IN THE SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM

Social work is a profession of high ethical standards. Social work education programs bear the responsibility of ensuring their graduates possess both competence and integrity. As an undergraduate professional degree program, the Manchester University Social Work Program has developed policies and procedures for selecting students into the Social Work Program and monitoring their continuation until graduation. This selection process is required by the Council on Social Work Education, the national organization for the accreditation of social work education programs.

The following policies and procedures have been developed to assist both students and faculty through the critical decision-making process of determining the appropriateness of student motivation and abilities in relationship to the professional practice of social work. The professional social work values of integrity and competence, and the program's goals and Competencies, are emphasized throughout the admissions process.

Declaration of Major

Declaration of an academic major is a relatively informal process. It involves a student naming an intended major upon admission to Manchester University.

Declaration of social work as a major does not guarantee admission to the Social Work Program or the Senior Social Work Practice Block.

Election of Major

During the sophomore year, all Manchester University students are expected to formally elect a major area of study. This requires the student, advisor, and dept. chair to sign the appropriate Election of Major (EOM) form (available at www.manchester.edu/academics/registrar/forms). By completing the social work EOM form, the student formally expresses to the University her/his intention to fulfill the requirements of the social work major.

Election of social work as a major does not guarantee admission to the Social Work Program or the Senior Social Work Practice Block.

Program Admissions Policy

It is the policy of the Manchester University Social Work Program to admit students who have demonstrated both the academic capacity to complete the Social Work major and a personal aptitude for practicing social work in an ethical and professional manner. Students must have demonstrated the ability and conviction to resolve personal issues that could impair performance in the classroom or in the field. It is further the policy of the Social Work Program that students whose academic capacity, as demonstrated by grade point average, and/or whose value base and personal integration are not compatible with the ethical and professional practice of social work will be denied admission the Social Work Program.

Program Admissions Procedures

Admission to the full Social Work Program is a two-phase process:

1. admission to Social Work Program (sophomore year), and

Termination of Enrollment in the Social Work Program

If a student, after admission to the Social Work Program and/or the Senior Social Work Practice Block, has not demonstrated the motivation or capacity to complete the social work major or to practice social work in an ethical or professional manner, the Social Work Program faculty may terminate the student's enrollment in the Social Work Program through the following procedure:

1. The social work faculty are responsible to communicate concerns to the student through advising and through contacts related to classes and field experience.
2. The Social Work Program Director will discuss with the student serious concerns regarding the student's continued enrollment, followed by a letter, stating the specific concerns and the actions to be taken by the Social Work Program and the student.
3. If the decision is to terminate enrollment, the student will be informed of the right to appeal and will be offered assistance in making alternative plans.

Ethical conduct is of the utmost importance during Field Instruction. Please refer to the Field Instruction Manual for specific examples of behaviors that could result in termination from Field Instruction and/or the Social Work Program.

Right to Appeal

Any student denied admission to the Social Work Program or to the Senior Social Work Practice Block, or any student whose enrollment in the Social Work Program has been terminated, has the right to appeal the decision through the following procedure:

3. The student will be notified of the committee's decision, in writing, within 14 days of the hearing; and,
4. If the student remains dissatisfied with the decision, the student has the right to appeal finally to the Dean of the College of Education and Social Sciences.

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH ACTIVITIES

Exploring a career in social work, and making a commitment to the profession and to one's own continued professional growth require experiences that go beyond the classroom. Manchester University organizations and community organizations offer a wide variety of opportunities for professional growth. Students are invited, and sometimes expected, to participate in many of the following activities.

In choosing field experiences, students are expected to select opportunities which offer diversity of types of settings and of populations served, rather than to focus on just one age group, social problem, or type of organization.

There are additional costs beyond student tuition and activities fees for some of the optional and required professional growth activities. Students will be informed in advance when there will be charges for field trips or seminars.

Required Activities of the Social Work Program Focused on Human Diversity:

Celebrating Diversity Workshop: These half-day workshops, offered to the entire university community each semester, provide opportunities for participants to examine social identities, unfreeze prejudicial attitudes, and act on the basis of shared values. Workshops focus on gaining ideas, strategies, and resources for taking an active role in promoting positive relations among diverse people. All social work students are required to attend one workshop before admission to the Senior Social Work Practice Block.

Safe Zone Training: Safe Zone training is a student-led outreach project by United Sexualities at Manchester University. Participants are trained on knowledge about LGBTQ populations, basic counseling skills for assisting LGBTQ persons, and guidelines for being an ally.

Anti-Racism Retreat: As part of SOWK 375 Social Work Practice II, students participate in this day-long retreat, which provides group experiential learning about racism, institutional racism, and other oppressions. The retreat exposes students to the emotions and dynamics generated in majority-minority encounters in a stratified society. Students analyze racism as a systemic problem of society and develop action plans for combating racism individually and collectively.

LGBTQ Workshop: This six-hour workshop is a required part of the SOWK 476 Field Instruction Seminar. Its focus is on developing cultural competence for generalist practice with lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer or questioning people. It includes content on confronting myths and stereotypes related to sexual orientation and gender identity; recognizing forms of oppression experienced by LGBTQ people; and developing strategies to practice effectively with this population and advocate for social justice.

Chicago Field Trip/Seminar on Diversity and Urban Social Work: As part of the SOWK 334 Human Behavior and the Social Environment (usually during the spring of the junior year), students participate in a three-day field trip to Chicago, which allows them to confront issues of racism, poverty, political influence, housing, employment, social diversity, and the contributions of the various cultures to the fabric of the city.

Campus-Based, Voluntary Professional Growth Opportunities:

Social Service Club: This campus organization acts as a mutual support community of students who share an interest in social services, helps to create and enhance the professional identity of prospective social workers, and encourages involvement and personal interaction among students and faculty. The group utilizes The Oak Leaves, sidewalk chalk, and word-of-mouth to enlighten and inform the university community on various activities surrounding these topics. MUEG does community service and volunteer work and attends various conferences to gain more information and skills. All students, faculty, and staff are invited to participate.

Campus Interfaith Board: CIB encourages members of the Manchester University community to develop an authentic living faith. CIB offers opportunities for students to examine, respect, and celebrate their own beliefs, traditions, and faith experiences as well as those of others in the university community. Events, highlighted by Focus on Faith Week in the fall and Peace Week in the spring, are held throughout the year.

Off-Campus, Voluntary Learning Experiences:

Chicago Center: The Chicago Center for Urban Life and Culture (CC) integrates a cooperative group living experience with a variety of learning opportunities, using the city of Chicago as a laboratory to study racial and ethnic diversity, racism, socioeconomic inequalities, and homelessness. Students are immersed in the city's neighborhoods and organizations. Among the programs which are available to Manchester University social work students are the Interterm and the Post-Term, 3 ½ week courses offered in January and May-June, providing seminar experience along with an internship. Senior social work majors may choose to complete their Field Instruction in an agency in Chicago through CC. For information about the CC programs, see both the Director of the Social Work Program and the Director of International Studies and Academic Enrichment.

January Session Off-Campus Classes: Enriching multi-cultural travel courses are available during the three-week January Session. In addition to Chicago Center experiences, international travel opportunities of particular usefulness for social work majors are the international social welfare course in Vietnam and the medical practicum in Nicaragua. Because Field Instruction begins in January of the senior year, students must select these off-campus options before the senior year.

Study Abroad Opportunities: Students are encouraged to expand their international outlook, participate in a cross-cultural experience, and earn a semester's or full year's credit through one of the international study programs with which Manchester University is affiliated. BCA (Brethren Colleges Abroad) offers a variety of study abroad opportunities in which students participate in an overseas universities and culture.

A social work-specific opportunity is available in India. Other possibilities include China, Ecuador, England, Northern Ireland, France, Germany, Greece, Japan, Mexico, and Spain. Further information about these programs is available through the Director of International Studies and Academic Enrichment. Social work students interested in study abroad need to work closely with the Director of International Studies and their faculty advisors in the Social Work Program in order to plan for meeting all requirements for the social work major (see suggested enrollment sequences for study abroad students in this handbook). Certain study abroad sites require 200-level language as a pre-requisite.

Pathways: The Pathways program encourages Manchester University students to explore the intersection of faith and vocation through opportunities for service in the United States and around the globe. Open to all majors, students consider their faith in light of their current and future work. Pathways offers three programs: Summer Service, Brethren Heritage Tour, and Imagination Grants for advanced students who design their own service projects. For more information, see the Director of International Studies and Academic Enrichment.

Professional Organizations and Meetings:

Students interested in teaching at the college level should consider attending. Students volunteering to help at the conference may attend for a reduced rate.

Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) Annual Program Meeting (APM): CSWE is the national accrediting body for BSW and MSW programs. Students interested in teaching at the college level should especially consider attending this annual conference (every fall). Attendance at Other Professional Meetings: In addition the activities already mentioned, students are encouraged to attend various state, regional, and national meetings, workshops, seminars, and conferences addressing social services, human diversity, and professional development.

The Graduation Pledge of Social and Environmental Responsibility

Many graduating seniors adopt this pledge every year, and it is officially recognized at Commencement ceremonies. The Pledge, which originated at Manchester University and is now adopted by colleges and universities nation-wide, states:

Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards

INTRODUCTION

Accreditation is a system for recognizing educational institutions and professional programs affiliated with those institutions as having a level of performance, integrity, and quality that entitles them to the confidence of the educational community and the public they serve. The Commission on Accreditation (COA) of the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) is recognized by the Council for Higher Education Authority to accredit baccalaureate and master's degree programs in social work education in the United States and its territories. The COA is responsible for formulating, promulgating, and implementing the accreditation standards for baccalaureate and master's degree programs in social work, for ensuring the standards define competent preparation, and for confirming that accredited social work programs meet the standards. To this end, CSWE's COA administers a multistep accreditation process that involves program self-studies and benchmarks, site visits, and COA reviews.

The accreditation review process provides professional judgments on the quality of a social work education program in an institution. These findings are based on applying the Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards (EPAS) promulgated by the Commission on Educational Policy (COEP) and the COA. The essential purpose of the accreditation process is to provide a professional judgment of the quality of the program offered and to encourage continual improvement. Moreover, systematic examination of compliance with established standards supports public confidence in the quality of professional social work education and in the competence of social work practice.

PURPOSE: SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE, EDUCATION, AND EDUCATIONAL POLICY AND ACCREDITATION STANDARDS

The purpose of the social work profession is to promote human and community well-being. Guided by a person-in-environment framework, a global perspective, respect for human diversity, and knowledge based on scientific inquiry, the purpose of social work is actualized through its quest for social and economic justice, the prevention of conditions that limit human rights, the elimination of poverty, and the enhancement of the quality of life for all persons, locally and globally.

Social work educators serve the profession through their teaching, scholarship, and service. Social work education at the baccalaureate, master's, and doctoral levels shapes the profession's future through the education of competent professionals, the generation of knowledge, the promotion of evidence-informed practice through scientific inquiry, and the exercise of leadership within the professional community. Social work education is advanced by the scholarship of teaching and learning, and scientific inquiry into its multifaceted dimensions, processes, and outcomes.

The Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) uses the Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards (EPAS) to accredit baccalaureate and master's level social work programs. EPAS supports academic excellence by establishing thresholds for professional competence. It permits programs to use traditional and emerging models of curriculum design by balancing requirements that promote comparable outcomes across programs with a level of flexibility that encourages programs to differentiate.

The EPAS describes four features of an integrated curriculum design:

1. program mission and goals;
2. explicit curriculum;
3. implicit curriculum; and
4. assessment.

The Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards are conceptually linked to each other. Educational Policy describes each curriculum feature. Accreditation Standards are derived from the Educational Policy and specify the requirements used to develop and maintain an accredited social work program at the baccalaureate (B) or master's (M) level.

COMPETENCY-BASED EDUCATION

In 2008 CSWE adopted a competency-based education framework for its EPAS. As in related health and human service professions, the policy moved from a model of curriculum design focused on content (what students should be taught) and structure (the format and organization of educational components) to one focused on student learning outcomes. A competency-based approach refers to identifying and assessing what students demonstrate in practice. In social work this approach involves assessing students' ability to demonstrate the competencies identified in the educational policy.

Competency-based education rests upon a shared view of the nature of competence in professional practice. Social work competence is the ability to integrate and apply social work knowledge, values, and skills to practice situations in a purposeful, intentional, and professional manner to promote human and community well-being. EPAS recognizes a holistic view of competence; that is, the demonstration of competence is informed by knowledge, values, skills, and cognitive and affective processes that include the social worker's critical thinking, affective reactions, and exercise of judgment in regard to unique practice situations. Overall professional competence is multi-dimensional and composed of interrelated competencies. An individual social worker's competence is seen as developmental and dynamic, changing over time in relation to continuous learning.

Competency-based education is an outcomes-oriented approach to curriculum design. The goal of the outcomes approach is to ensure that students are able to demonstrate the integration and application of the competencies in practice. In EPAS, social work practice competence consists of nine interrelated competencies and component behaviors that are comprised of knowledge, values, skills, and cognitive and affective processes.

Using a curriculum design that begins with the outcomes, expressed as the expected competencies, programs develop the substantive content, pedagogical approach, and educational activities that provide learning opportunities for students to demonstrate the competencies.

Assessment of student learning outcomes is an essential component of competency-based education. Assessment provides evidence that students have demonstrated the level of competence necessary to enter professional practice, which in turn shows programs are successful in achieving their goals. Assessment information is used to improve the educational program and the methods used to assess student learning outcomes.

Programs assess students' demonstration of competence. The assessment methods used by programs gather data that serve as evidence of student learning outcomes and the demonstration of competence. Understanding social work practice is complex and multi-dimensional, the assessment methods used by programs and the data collected may vary by context.

Social Work Competencies

The nine Social Work Competencies are listed below. Programs may add competencies that are consistent with their mission and goals and respond to their context. Each competency describes the knowledge, values, skills, and cognitive and affective processes that comprise the competency at the generalist level of practice, followed by a set of behaviors that integrate these components. These behaviors represent observable components of the competencies, while the preceding statements represent the underlying content and processes that inform the behaviors.

Competency 1: Demonstrate Ethical and Professional Behavior

Social workers understand the value base of the profession and its ethical standards, as well as relevant laws and regulations that may impact practice at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels. Social workers understand frameworks of ethical decision-making and how to apply principles of critical thinking to those frameworks in practice, research, and policy arenas. Social workers recognize personal values and the distinction between personal and professional values. They also understand how their personal experiences and affective reactions influence their professional judgment and behavior. Social workers understand the profession's history, its mission, and the roles and responsibilities of the profession. Social Workers also understand the role of other professions when engaged in inter-professional teams. Social workers recognize the importance of life-long learning and are committed to continually updating their skills to ensure they are relevant and effective. Social workers also understand emerging forms of technology and the ethical use of technology in social work practice. Social workers:

- make ethical decisions by applying the standards of the NASW Code of Ethics, relevant laws and regulations, models for ethical decision-making, ethical conduct of research, and additional codes of ethics as appropriate to context;

- use reflection and self-regulation to manage personal values and maintain professionalism in practice situations;
- demonstrate professional demeanor in behavior; appearance; and oral, written, and electronic communication;
- use technology ethically and appropriately to facilitate practice outcomes; and
- use supervision and consultation to guide professional judgment and behavior.

Competency 2: Engage Diversity and Difference in Practice

Social workers understand how diversity and difference characterize and shape the human experience and are critical to the formation of identity. The dimensions of diversity are understood as the intersectionality of multiple factors including but not limited to age, class, color, culture, disability and ability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity and expression, immigration status, marital status, political ideology, race, religion/spirituality, sex, sexual orientation, and tribal sovereign status. Social workers understand that, as a consequence of difference, a person's life experiences may include oppression, poverty, marginalization, and alienation as well as privilege, power, and acclaim. Social workers also understand the forms and mechanisms of oppression and discrimination and recognize the extent to which a culture's structures and values, including social, economic, political, and cultural exclusions, may oppress, marginalize, alienate, or create privilege and power. Social workers:

- apply and communicate understanding of the importance of diversity and difference in shaping life experiences in practice at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels;
- present themselves as learners and engage clients and constituencies as experts of their own experiences; and
- apply self-awareness and self-regulation to manage the influence of personal biases and values in working with diverse clients and constituencies.

Competency 3: Advance Human Rights and Social, Economic, and Environmental Justice Social workers understand that every person regardless of position in society has fundamental human rights such as freedom, safety, privacy, an adequate standard of living, health care, and education. Social workers understand the global interconnections of oppression and human rights violations, and are knowledgeable about theories of human need and social justice and strategies to promote social and economic justice and human rights. Social workers understand strategies designed to eliminate oppressive structural barriers to ensure that social goods, rights, and responsibilities are distributed equitably and that civil, political, environmental, economic, social, and cultural human rights are protected. Social workers:

- apply their understanding of social, economic, and environmental justice to advocate for human rights at the individual and system levels; and
- engage in practices that advance social, economic, and environmental justice.

Competency 4: Engage In Practice-informed Research and Research-informed Practice

Social workers understand quantitative and qualitative research methods and their respective roles in advancing a science of social work and in evaluating their practice. Social workers know the principles of logic, scientific inquiry, and culturally informed and ethical approaches to building knowledge. Social workers understand that evidence that informs practice derives from multi-disciplinary sources and multiple ways of knowing. They also understand the processes for translating research findings into effective practice. Social workers:

- use practice experience and theory to inform scientific inquiry and research;
- apply critical thinking to engage in analysis of quantitative and qualitative research methods and research findings; and
- use and translate research evidence to inform and improve practice, policy, and service delivery.

Competency 5: Engage in Policy Practice

Social workers understand that human rights and social justice, as well as social welfare and services, are mediated by policy and its implementation at the federal, state, and local levels. Social workers understand the history and current structures of social policies and services, the role of policy in service delivery, and the role of practice in policy development.

Social workers understand their role in policy development and implementation within their practice settings at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels and they actively engage in policy practice to effect change within those settings. Social workers recognize and understand the historical, social, cultural, economic, organizational, environmental, and global influences that affect social policy. They are also knowledgeable about policy formulation, analysis, implementation, and evaluation. Social workers:

- Identify social policy at the local, state, and federal level that impacts well-being, service delivery, and access to social services;
- assess how social welfare and economic policies impact the delivery of and access to social services;
- apply critical thinking to analyze, formulate, and advocate for policies that advance human rights and social, economic, and environmental justice.

Competency 6: Engage with Individuals, Families, Groups, Organizations, and Communities

Social workers understand that engagement is an ongoing component of the dynamic and interactive process of social work practice with, and on behalf of, diverse individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers value the importance of human relationships. Social workers understand theories of human behavior and the social environment, and critically evaluate and apply this knowledge to facilitate engagement with clients and constituencies, including individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers understand strategies to engage diverse clients and constituencies to advance practice effectiveness. Social workers understand how their personal experiences and affective reactions may impact their ability to effectively engage with diverse clients and constituencies. Social workers value principles of relationship-building and inter-professional collaboration to facilitate engagement with clients, constituencies, and other professionals as appropriate. Social workers:

- apply knowledge of human behavior and the social environment, person-in-environment, and other multidisciplinary theoretical frameworks to engage with clients and constituencies; and
- use empathy, reflection, and interpersonal skills to effectively engage diverse clients and constituencies.

Competency 7: Assess Individuals, Families, Groups, Organizations, and Communities

Social workers understand that assessment is an ongoing component of the dynamic and interactive process of social work practice with, and on behalf of, diverse individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers understand theories of human behavior and the social environment, and critically evaluate and apply this knowledge in the assessment of diverse clients and constituencies, including individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers understand methods of assessment with diverse clients and constituencies to advance practice effectiveness. Social workers recognize the implications of the larger practice context in the assessment process and value the importance of inter-professional collaboration in this process. Social workers understand how their personal experiences and affective reactions may affect their assessment and decision-making. Social workers:

- collect and organize data, and apply critical thinking to interpret information from clients and constituencies;
- apply knowledge of human behavior and the social environment, person-in-environment, and other multidisciplinary theoretical frameworks in the analysis of assessment data from clients and constituencies;

- select appropriate intervention strategies based on the assessment, research knowledge, and values and preferences of clients and constituencies.

Competency 8: Intervene with Individuals, Families, Groups, Organizations, and Communities

Social workers understand that intervention is an ongoing component of the dynamic and interactive process of social work practice with, and on behalf of, diverse individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers are knowledgeable about evidence-informed interventions to achieve the goals of clients and constituencies, including individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers understand theories of human behavior and the social environment, and critically evaluate and apply this knowledge to effectively intervene with clients and constituencies. Social workers understand methods of identifying, analyzing and implementing evidence-informed interventions to achieve client and constituency goals. Social workers value the importance of interprofessional teamwork and communication in interventions, recognizing that beneficial outcomes may require interdisciplinary, interprofessional, and inter-organizational collaboration. Social workers:

- critically choose and implement interventions to achieve practice goals and enhance capacities of clients and constituencies;
- apply knowledge of human behavior and the social environment, person-in-environment, and other multidisciplinary theoretical frameworks in interventions with clients and constituencies;

- critically analyze, monitor, and evaluate intervention and program processes and outcomes; and
- apply evaluation findings to improve practice effectiveness at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels.

PROGRAM MISSION AND GOALS

Educational Policy 1.0 – Program Mission and Goals

The mission and goals of each social work program address the profession’s purpose, are grounded in core professional values, and are informed by program context.

Values

Service, social justice, the dignity and worth of the person, the importance of human relationships, integrity, competence, human rights, and scientific inquiry are among the core values of social work. These values underpin the explicit and implicit curriculum and frame the profession’s commitment to respect for all people and the quest for social and economic justice.

Program Context

Context encompasses the mission of the institution in which the program is located and the needs and opportunities associated with the setting and program options. Programs are further influenced by their practice communities, which are informed by their historical, political, economic, environmental, social, cultural, demographic, local, regional, and global contexts and by the ways they elect to engage these factors. Additional factors include new knowledge, technology, and ideas that may have a bearing on contemporary and future social work education, practice, and research.

Accreditation Standard 1.0—Program Mission and Goals

- 1.0.1 The program submits its mission statement and explains how it is consistent with the profession's purpose and values.
- 1.0.2 The program explains how its mission is consistent with the institutional mission and the program's context across all program options.
- 1.0.3 The program identifies its goals and demonstrates how they are derived from the program's mission.

EXPLICIT CURRICULUM

The explicit curriculum constitutes the program's formal educational structure and includes the courses and field education used for each of its program options. Social work education is grounded in the liberal arts, which provide the intellectual basis for the professional curriculum and inform its design. Using a competency-based education framework, the explicit curriculum prepares students for professional practice at the baccalaureate and master's levels. Baccalaureate programs prepare students for generalist practice. Master's programs prepare students for generalist practice and specialized practice. The explicit curriculum, including field education, may include forms of technology as a component of the curriculum.

Educational Policy 2.0—Generalist Practice

Generalist practice is grounded in the liberal arts and the person-in-environment framework. To promote human and social well-being, generalist practitioners use a range of prevention and intervention methods in their practice with diverse individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities based on scientific inquiry and best practices. The generalist practitioner identifies with the social work profession and applies ethical principles and critical thinking in practice at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels. Generalist practitioners engage diversity in their practice and advocate for human rights and social and economic justice. They recognize, support, and build on the strengths and resiliency of all human beings. They engage in research-informed practice and are proactive in responding to the impact of context on professional practice.

The baccalaureate program in social work prepares students for generalist practice. The descriptions of the nine Social Work Competencies presented in the EPAS identify the knowledge, values, skills, cognitive and affective processes, and behaviors associated with competence at the generalist level of practice.

Accreditation Standard B2.0—Generalist Practice

- B2.0.1 The program explains how its mission and goals are consistent with generalist practice as defined in EP 2.0.
- B2.0.2 The program provides a rationale for its formal curriculum design demonstrating how it is used to develop a coherent and integrated curriculum for both classroom and field.
- B2.0.3 The program provides a matrix that illustrates how its curriculum content implements the nine required social work competencies and any additional competencies added by the program.

Accreditation Standard M2.0—Generalist Practice

- M2.0.1 The program explains how its mission and goals are consistent with generalist practice as defined in EP 2.0.

M2.0.2 The program provides a rationale for its formal curriculum design for generalist practice demonstrating how it is used to develop a coherent and integrated curriculum for both classroom and field.

M2.0.3 The program provides a matrix that illustrates how its generalist practice content implements the nine required social work competencies and any additional competencies added by the program.

Educational Policy M2.1—Specialized Practice

Specialized practice builds on generalist practice as described in EP 2.0, adapting and extending the Social Work Competencies for practice with a specific population, problem area, method of intervention, perspective or approach to practice. Specialized practice augments and extends social work knowledge, values, and skills to engage, assess, intervene, and evaluate within an area of specialization. Specialized practitioners advocate with and on behalf of clients and constituencies in their area of specialized practice. Specialized practitioners synthesize and employ a broad range of interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary knowledge and skills based on scientific inquiry and best practices, and consistent with social work values. Specialized practitioners engage in and conduct research to inform and improve practice, policy, and service delivery. The master's program in social work prepares students for specialized practice. Programs identify the specialized knowledge, values, skills, cognitive and affective processes, and behaviors that extend and enhance the nine Social Work Competencies and prepare students for practice in the area of specialization.

Accreditation Standard M2.1—Specialized Practice

M2.1.1 The program identifies its area(s) of specialized practice (EP M2.1), and demonstrates how it builds on generalist practice.

M2.1.2 The program provides a rationale for its formal curriculum design for specialized practice demonstrating how the design is used to develop a coherent and integrated curriculum for both classroom and field.

M2.1.3 The program describes how its area(s) of specialized practice extend and enhance the nine Social Work Competencies (and any additional competencies developed by the program) to prepare students for practice in the area(s) of specialization.

M2.1.4 For each area of specialized practice, the program provides a matrix that illustrates how its curriculum content implements the nine required social work competencies and any additional competencies added by the program.

Educational Policy 2.2—Signature Pedagogy: Field Education

Signature pedagogies are elements of instruction and of socialization that teach future practitioners the fundamental dimensions of professional work in their discipline—to think, to perform, and to act ethically and with integrity. Field education is the signature pedagogy for social work. The intent of field education is to integrate the theoretical and conceptual contribution of the classroom with the practical world of the practice setting. It is a basic precept of social work education that the two interrelated components of curriculum—classroom and field—are of equal importance within the curriculum, and each contributes to the development of the requisite competencies of professional practice. Field education is systematically designed, supervised, coordinated, and evaluated based on criteria by which students demonstrate the Social Work Competencies. Field education may integrate forms of technology as a component of the program.

Accreditation Standard 2.2—Field Education

2.2.1 The program explains how its field education program connects the theoretical and conceptual contributions of the classroom and field settings.

B2.2.2 The program explains how its field education program provides generalist practice opportunities for students to demonstrate social work competencies with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities and

- illustrates how this is accomplished in field settings.
- M2.2.2 The program explains how its field education program provides generalist practice opportunities for students to demonstrate social work competencies with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities and illustrates how this is accomplished in field settings.
- M2.2.3 The program explains how its field education program provides specialized practice opportunities for students to demonstrate social work competencies within an area of specialized practice and illustrates how this is accomplished in field settings.
- 2.2.4 The program explains how students across all program options in its field education program demonstrate social work competencies through in-person contact with clients and constituencies.
- 2.2.5 The program describes how its field education program provides a minimum of 400 hours of field education for baccalaureate programs and a minimum of 900 hours for master's programs.
- 2.2.6 The program provides its criteria for admission into field education and explains how its field education program admits only those students who have met the program's specified criteria.
- 2.2.7 The program describes how its field education program specifies policies, criteria, and procedures for selecting field settings; placing and monitoring students; supporting student safety; and evaluating student learning and field setting effectiveness congruent with the social work competencies.
- 2.2.8 The program describes how its field education program maintains contact with field settings across all program options. The program explains how on-site contact or other methods are used to monitor student learning and field setting effectiveness.
- B2.2.9 The program describes how its field education program specifies the credentials and practice experience of its field instructors necessary to design field learning opportunities for students to demonstrate program social work competencies. Field instructors for baccalaureate students hold a baccalaureate or master's degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program and have 2 years post-social work degree practice experience in social work. For cases in which a field instructor does not hold a CSWE-accredited social work degree or does not have the required experience, the program assumes responsibility for reinforcing a social work perspective and describes how this is accomplished.

- M2.2.9 The program describes how its field education program specifies the credentials and practice experience of its field instructors necessary to design field learning opportunities for students to demonstrate program social work competencies. Field instructors for master's students hold a master's degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program and have 2 years post-master's social work practice experience. For cases in which a field instructor does not hold a CSWE-accredited social work degree or does not have the required experience, the program assumes responsibility for reinforcing a social work perspective and describes how this is accomplished.
- 2.2.10 The program describes how its field education program provides orientation, field instruction training, and continuing dialog with field education settings and field instructors.
- 2.2.11 The program describes how its field education program develops policies regarding field placements in an organization in which the student is also employed. To ensure the role of student as learner, student assignments and field education supervision are not the same as those of the student's employment.

IMPLICIT CURRICULUM

The implicit curriculum refers to the learning environment in which the explicit curriculum is presented. It is composed of the following elements: the program's commitment to diversity; admissions policies and procedures; advisement, retention, and termination policies; student participation in governance; faculty; administrative structure; and resources. The implicit curriculum is manifested through policies that are fair and transparent in substance and implementation, the qualifications of the faculty, and the adequacy and fair distribution of resources. The culture of human interchange; the spirit of inquiry; the support for difference and diversity; and the values and priorities in the educational environment, including the field setting, inform the student's learning and development. The implicit curriculum is as important as the explicit curriculum in shaping the professional character and competence of the program's graduates. Heightened awareness of the importance of the implicit curriculum promotes an educational culture that is congruent with the values of the profession and the mission, goals, and context of the program.

Educational Policy 3.0—Diversity

The program's expectation for diversity is reflected in its learning environment, which provides the context through which students learn about differences, to value and respect diversity, and develop a commitment to cultural humility. The dimensions of diversity are understood as the intersectionality of multiple factors including but not limited to age, class, color, culture, disability and ability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity and expression, immigration status, marital status, political ideology, race, religion/spirituality, sex, sexual orientation, and tribal sovereign status. The learning environment consists of the program's institutional setting; selection of field education settings and their clientele; composition of program advisory or field committees; educational and social resources; resource allocation; program leadership; speaker series, seminars, and special programs; support groups; research and other initiatives; and the demographic make-up of its faculty, staff, and student body.

Accreditation Standard 3.0—Diversity

3.0.1 The program describes the specific and continuous efforts it makes to provide a learning environment that models affirmation and respect for diversity and difference.

- 3.0.2 The program explains how these efforts provide a supportive and inclusive learning environment.
- 3.0.3 The program describes specific plans to continually improve the learning environment to affirm and support persons with diverse identities.

Educational Policy 3.1—Student Development

Educational preparation and commitment to the profession are essential qualities in the admission and development of students for professional practice. Student participation in formulating and modifying policies affecting academic and student affairs are important for students' professional development.

To promote the social work education continuum, graduates of baccalaureate social work programs admitted to master's social work programs are presented with an articulated pathway toward specialized practice.

Accreditation Standard 3.1—Student Development: Admissions; Advisement, Retention, and Termination; and Student Participation

Admissions

- B3.1.1 The program identifies the criteria it uses for admission to the social work program.
- M3.1.1 The program identifies the criteria it uses for admission to the social work program. The criteria for admission to the master's program must include an earned baccalaureate degree from a college or university accredited by a recognized regional accrediting association. Baccalaureate social work graduates entering master's social work programs are not to repeat what has been achieved in their baccalaureate social work programs.
- 3.1.2 The program describes the policies and procedures for evaluating applications and notifying applicants of the decision and any contingent conditions associated with admission.
- M3.1.3 The program describes the policies and procedures used for awarding advanced standing. The program indicates that advanced standing is awarded only to graduates holding degrees from baccalaureate social work programs accredited by CSWE, recognized through its International Social Work Degree Recognition and Evaluation Services,* or covered under a memorandum of understanding with international social work accreditors.
- 3.1.4 The program describes its policies and procedures concerning the transfer of credits.
- 3.1.5 The program submits its written policy indicating that it does not grant social work course credit for life experience or previous work experience. The program documents how it informs applicants and other constituents of this policy.

Advisement, retention, and termination

- 3.1.6 The program describes its academic and professional advising policies and procedures. Professional advising is provided by social work program faculty, staff, or both.
- 3.1.7 The program submits its policies and procedures for evaluating student's academic and professional performance, including grievance policies and procedures. The program describes how it informs students of its criteria for evaluating their academic and professional performance and its policies and procedures for grievance.

- 3.1.8 The program submits its policies and procedures for terminating a student's enrollment in the social work program for reasons of academic and professional performance. The program describes how it informs students of these policies and procedures.

Student participation

- 3.1.9 The program submits its policies and procedures specifying students' rights and opportunities to participate in formulating and modifying policies affecting academic and student affairs.
- 3.1.10 The program describes how it provides opportunities and encourages students to organize in their interests.

Educational Policy 3.2—Faculty

Faculty qualifications, including experience related to the Social Work Competencies, an appropriate student-faculty ratio, and sufficient faculty to carry out a program's mission and goals, are essential for developing an educational environment that promotes, emulates, and teaches students the knowledge, values, and skills expected of professional social workers. Through their teaching, research, scholarship, and service—as well as their interactions with one another, administration, students, and community—the program's faculty models the behavior and values expected of professional social workers. Programs demonstrate that faculty is qualified to teach the courses to which they are assigned.

Accreditation Standard 3.2—Faculty

- 3.2.1 The program identifies each full- and part-time social work faculty member and discusses his or her qualifications, competence, expertise in social work education and practice, and years of service to the program.
- 3.2.2 The program documents that faculty who teach social work practice courses have a master's degree in social work from a

- CSWE-accredited program and at least 2 years of post-master's social work degree practice experience.
- 3.2.3 The program documents a full-time equivalent faculty-to-student ratio not greater than 1:25 for baccalaureate programs and not greater than 1:12 for master's programs and explains how this ratio is calculated. In addition, the program explains how faculty size is commensurate with the number and type of curricular offerings in class and field; number of program options; class size; number of students; advising; and the faculty's teaching, scholarly, and service responsibilities.
- B3.2.4 The baccalaureate social work program identifies no fewer than two full-time faculty assigned to the baccalaureate program, with full-time appointment in social work, and whose principal assignment is to the baccalaureate program. The majority of the total full-time baccalaureate social work program faculty has a master's degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program, with a doctoral degree preferred.
- M3.2.4 The master's social work program identifies no fewer than six full-time faculty with master's degrees in social work from a CSWE-accredited program and whose principal assignment is to the master's program. The majority of the full-time master's social work program faculty has a master's degree in social work and a doctoral degree, preferably in social work.
- 3.2.5 The program describes its faculty workload policy and discusses how the policy supports the achievement of institutional priorities and the program's mission and goals.
- 3.2.6 Faculty demonstrate ongoing professional development as teachers, scholars, and practitioners through dissemination of research and scholarship, exchanges with external constituencies such as practitioners and agencies, and through other professionally relevant creative activities that support the achievement of institutional priorities and the program's mission and goals.

- 3.2.7 The program demonstrates how its faculty models the behavior and values of the profession in the program's educational environment.

Educational Policy 3.3—Administrative and Governance Structure

Social work faculty and administrators, based on their education, knowledge, and skills, are best suited to make decisions regarding the delivery of social work education. Faculty and administrators exercise autonomy in designing an administrative and leadership structure, developing curriculum, and formulating and implementing policies that support the education of competent social workers. The administrative structure is sufficient to carry out the program's mission and goals. In recognition of the importance of field education as the signature pedagogy, programs must provide an administrative structure and adequate resources for systematically designing, supervising, coordinating, and evaluating field education across all program options.

Accreditation Standard 3.3—Administrative Structure

- 3.3.1 The program describes its administrative structure and shows how it provides the necessary autonomy to achieve the program's mission and goals.
- 3.3.2 The program describes how the social work faculty has responsibility for defining program curriculum consistent with the Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards and the institution's policies.

- 3.3.3 The program describes how the administration and faculty of the social work program participate in formulating and implementing policies related to the recruitment, hiring, retention, promotion, and tenure of program personnel.
- 3.3.4 The program identifies the social work program director. Institutions with accredited baccalaureate and master's programs appoint a separate director for each.
- B3.3.4(a) The program describes the baccalaureate program director's leadership ability through teaching, scholarship, curriculum development, administrative experience, and other academic and professional activities in social work. The program documents that the director has a master's degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program with a doctoral degree in social work preferred.
- B3.3.4(b) The program provides documentation that the director has a full-time appointment to the social work baccalaureate program.
- B3.3.4(c) The program describes the procedures for calculating the program director's assigned time to provide educational and administrative leadership to the program. To carry out the administrative functions specific to responsibilities of the social work program, a minimum of 25% assigned time is required at the baccalaureate level. The program discusses that this time is sufficient.
- M3.3.4(a) The program describes the master's program director's leadership ability through teaching, scholarship, curriculum development, administrative experience, and other academic and professional activities in social work. The program documents that the director has a master's degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program. In addition, it is preferred that the master's program director have a doctoral degree, preferably in social work.
- M3.3.4(b) The program provides documentation that the director has a full-time appointment to the social work master's program.
- M3.3.4(c) The program describes the procedures for determining the program director's assigned time to provide educational and administrative leadership to the program. To carry out the administrative functions specific to responsibilities of the social work program, a minimum of 50% assigned time is required at the master's level. The program demonstrates this time is sufficient.
- 3.3.5 The program identifies the field education director.
- 3.3.5(a) The program describes the field director's ability to provide leadership in the field education program through practice experience, field instruction experience, and administrative and other relevant academic and professional activities in social work.
- B3.3.5(b) The program documents that the field education director has a master's degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program and at least 2 years of post-baccalaureate or post-master's social work degree practice experience.
- M3.3.5(b) The program documents that the field education director has a master's degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program and at least 2 years of post-master's social work degree practice experience.

B3.3.5(c) The program describes the procedures for calculating the field director's assigned time to provide educational and administrative leadership for field education. To carry out the administrative functions of the field education program, at least 25% assigned time is required for baccalaureate programs. The program demonstrates this time is sufficient.

M3.3.5(c) The program describes the procedures for calculating the field director's assigned time to provide educational and administrative leadership for field education. To carry out the administrative functions of the field education program at least 50% assigned time is required for master's programs. The program demonstrates this time is sufficient.

3.3.6 The program describes its administrative structure for field education and explains how its resources (personnel, time and technological support) are sufficient to administer its field education program to meet its mission and goals.

Educational Policy 3.4—Resources

Adequate resources are fundamental to creating, maintaining, and improving an educational environment that supports the development of competent social work practitioners. Social work programs have the necessary resources to carry out the program's mission and goals and to support learning and professionalization of students and program improvement.

Accreditation Standard 3.4—Resources

3.4.1 The program describes the procedures for budget development and administration it uses to achieve its mission and goals. The program submits a completed budget form and explains how its financial resources are sufficient and stable to achieve its mission and goals.

3.4.2 The program describes how it uses resources to address challenges and continuously improve the program.

3.4.3 The program demonstrates that it has sufficient support staff, other personnel, and technological resources to support all of its educational activities, mission and goals.

3.4.4 The program submits a library report that demonstrates access to social work and other informational and educational resources necessary for achieving its mission and goals.

3.4.5 The program describes and demonstrates sufficient office and classroom space and/or computer-mediated access to achieve its mission and goals.

3.4.6 The program describes, for each program option, the availability of and access to assistive technology, including materials in alternative formats.

ASSESSMENT

Educational Policy 4.0—Assessment of Student Learning Outcomes

Assessment is an integral component of competency-based education. Assessment involves the systematic gathering of data about student performance of Social Work Competencies at both the generalist and specialized levels of practice.

Competence is perceived as holistic, involving both performance and the knowledge, values, critical thinking, affective reactions, and exercise of judgment that inform performance.

Assessment therefore must be multi-dimensional and integrated to capture the demonstration of the competencies and the quality of internal processing informing the performance of the competencies. Assessment is best done while students are engaged in practice tasks or activities that approximate social work practice as closely as possible. Practice often requires the performance of multiple competencies simultaneously; therefore, assessment of those competencies may optimally be carried out at the same time.

Programs assess students' demonstration of the Social Work Competencies through the use of multi-dimensional assessment methods. Assessment methods are developed to gather data that serve as evidence of student learning outcomes and the demonstration of competence. Understanding social work practice is complex and multi-dimensional, the assessment methods used and the data collected may vary by context. Assessment information is used to guide student learning, assess student outcomes, assess and improve effectiveness of the curriculum, and strengthen the assessment methods used. Assessment also involves gathering data regarding the implicit curriculum, which may include but is not limited to an assessment of diversity, student development, faculty, administrative and governance structure, and resources. Data from assessment continuously inform and promote change in the explicit curriculum and the implicit curriculum to enhance attainment of Social Work Competencies.

Accreditation Standard 4.0—Assessment

4.0.1 The program presents its plan for ongoing assessment of student outcomes for all identified competencies in the generalist level of practice (baccalaureate social work programs) and the generalist and specialized levels of practice (master's social work programs). Assessment of competence is done by program designated faculty or field personnel. The plan includes:

- A description of the assessment procedures that detail when, where, and how each competency is assessed for each program option.

- At least two measures assess each competency. One of the assessment measures is based on demonstration of the competency in real or simulated practice situations.
- An explanation of how the assessment plan measures multiple dimensions of each competency, as described in EP 4.0.
- Benchmarks for each competency, a rationale for each benchmark, and a description of how it is determined that students' performance meets the benchmark.
- An explanation of how the program determines the percentage of students achieving the benchmark.
- Copies of all assessment measures used to assess all identified competencies.

4.0.2 The program provides its most recent year of summary data and outcomes for the assessment of each of the identified competencies, specifying the percentage of students achieving program benchmarks for each program option.

4.0.3 The program uses Form AS 4(B) and/or Form AS 4(M) to report its most recent assessment outcomes for each program option to constituents and the public on its website and routinely up-dates (minimally every 2 years) its findings.

4.0.4 The program describes the process used to evaluate outcomes and their implications for program renewal across program options. It discusses specific changes it has made in the program based on these assessment outcomes with clear links to the data.

4.0.5 For each program option, the program provides its plan and summary data for the assessment of the implicit curriculum as defined in EP 4.0 from program defined stakeholders. The program discusses implications for program renewal and specific changes it has made based on these assessment outcomes.
